Description

Special lever tool for snap frames

Secure snap frames do not have a finger groove to open the frame, making the contents more secure.

This lever tool is needed to allow secure snap frames to be opened easily so the contents can be updated i.e. by inserting a new poster or notice.

How many lever tools should you order?

Customers ordering a quantity of secure snap frames do not generally require multiple lever tools. Normally one is required for each person authorised to update the contents - with a few spare lever tools in case any get lost.

The secure type of snap frame which requires this special opening tool can also be referred to as a security snap frame - as it offers an enhanced level of security compared to a normal snap frame.

Additional Information

More Information	Note: Depending on current availability the lever tool can be made from plastic (as pictured) or metal. Both work equally well.
