Double Royal poster display

Double royal is the preferred print size for rail and has been used by London Underground since 1908. It is becoming increasingly popular in a range of settings from retail to entertainment and hospitality due to its ability to be seen and create a quick but lasting impact.

You can use standard or heavy-weight paper posters in our double royal snap frame or, if you get your posters specially printed, up to 3mm signboards. These will fit perfectly within the frame beneath the heavy-duty poster cover. As with any print that might end up outdoors we recommend starting with waterproof media, your commercial printers will be able to do this as standard.

Double royal poster snap frames

More Information

Snap frames are among our bestselling products, and we're delighted to be able to offer these now in the substantial, eye-catching 'double royal' size. With interlocking sides, open one side, open them all! The snap-open-and-shut action makes poster change quick and easy and the lock ensures your notices and posters are kept safe.

Waterproof snap frames are designed to be mounted onto a flat wall or surface so that the back is not exposed, as this may compromise the ability to remain waterproof. To mount on alternative surfaces such as fences and railings we recommend that you first mount the frame onto a rigid solid backing board, and then attach the backing board to your desired location.
